Belgium is a Western European country bordered by Germany, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and France.

It has a population of just over 11 million inhabitants. The main city is Brussels, capital of Belgium and of the European Union and NATO.

The country has three official languages: Dutch, French and German. The cultural and linguistic diversity of the country by a succession of State reforms led to a complex political system.

Belgium grew into the world's 21st economy, became one of the wealthiest, most developed and most globalized countries in the world, and built on his free market economy with limited government interference an extensive welfare state.

Belgium speaks to the imagination. Tourists from all over the world are attracted to Belgium and its cosmopolitan capital Brussels. This is something we cannot ignore. By the terrorist attacks in Brussels a lot of tourists stay away. But Belgium is still a welcoming country. Don't let fear prevail and come to visit us. Believe it or not: Belgium is a beautiful and safe country where it's still good to live.
